Human Rights Day is observed each year on December 10, the day the United Nations General Assembly adopted the Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR) in 1948. The UDHR proclaims the rights to which everyone is entitled as a human being - regardless of race, color, religion, sex, language, political or other opinion, national or social origin, property, birth or other status.

The 2020 theme is Recover Better: Stand Up for Human Rights. It acknowledges that human rights must be at the center of the post-COVID 19 world. The COVID-19 crisis has been fueled by and is in turn perpetuating deepening poverty, rising inequalities, structural and entrenched discrimination and other gaps in human rights protection. Only measures to close these gaps and advance human rights can ensure we fully recover and build back a world that is better, more resilient, just, and sustainable. To recover fully, we must end discrimination of any kind, address inequalities, encourage solidarity and promote sustainable development. Read more here.
The Office of Diversity, Inclusion and Equity wishes you and your loved ones a safe, healthy and happy holiday season! We look forward to a 2021 filled with renewed purpose and dedication.

Check out what Diversity, Inclusion & Equity is offering this month! In addition to First Gen Celebration Week, we have programs discussing the 2020 Election and celebrations centered on Native American Heritage Month.

Are you looking for a little respite in your life?

A way to mark the passage of time and its rhythms?

A Time for Rest, Relaxation, and Reflection

Rosh Chodesh is the ancient Jewish practice of marking the start of each month. Jewish feminists took it up as a way to reclaim and reimage community. Open to all, our Rosh Chodesh meetings will hold space for open dialogue and offer self care practices, creating purpose through ritual.

Open to all women-oriented folks and their allies.

All are welcome.
